WHITE OAK SUGGESTION—Curtis Kendricks, above, employed in the Weave Room at White Oak Plant, suggested replacing the sprocket chains at the quill hoppers with heavier chains. The chains were too light to carry the load and often broke. He received a cash award from Cone Mills for his idea.

GOOD CITIZENS—Jimmy Jordan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jordan, 1523 Andover Street, and Jean Gregory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gregory, 1504 Walnut Street, shown center, proudly admire their Clarence Michael Citizenship trophies which they received recently from Proximity Y's Men's Club. With them are runners-up in the citizenship selection. They are each holding loving cups presented by the Y's Men's Club. They are, left, Johnny Oates, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Oates, 1515 Summit Avenue; Harold Nicholson, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Oates, 1203 Summit Avenue; at right, Ann Spence, granddaughter of Mrs. Annie Walker, 1201 Westside Drive, and Bunny Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Marshall, 1606 Fairview Street. The young winners were chosen for mental ability, physical fitness, social participation and spiritual attributes. George Hamer made the presentations at a dinner meeting of the Y's Men's recently.

Hardy-Hinshaw Vows Spoken In Missouri

Miss Carol Hardy and A-2/c Jerry Hinshaw were married February 14 in Kansas City, Missouri, at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. L. G. Wilson, pastor of the Congregational Christian Church of that city.

Mrs. Hinshaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Hardy of Topeka, Kansas, is a graduate of McPherson High School and attended McPherson College, McPherson, Kansas. She is employed in the bookkeeping department of Simpson Trainers in Salina, Kansas.

Airman Hinshaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hinshaw, 2102 Cypress Street, is a graduate of Greensboro Senior High School, volunteered for the Air Force, completed his course in Gunner's School and is now in Air Force Engineering Department, stationed in Salina, Kansas. He has been in service 20 months.

After a few days in Kansas City they will return to Salina, Kansas, where they have an apartment.

NOTICE

The Proximity-Print Works Community Club will have a covered-lunch supper at their monthly meeting Tuesday, February 24, at 6:30 p.m. in the club room at the Proximity YMCA.

All-Stars Lose To Kannapolis In Tourney

In the Interstate YMCA Basketball Tournament held at Mt. Airy last Friday and Saturday, Cone Memorial Y All-Stars played Elkin in the first round, winning 73-65. Archie Wheeler led the scoring for the local team with 26 points and Jack Elkins followed with 14.

In the quarter finals Cone Y defeated Albemarle Y 64-47. Elkins led the scoring with 19 points followed by Wheelers 15.

Cone Memorial All-Stars with wins over Elkin and Albemarle advanced to the semi-finals on Saturday, against Kannapolis. Cone Y weakened considerably without the services of Jack Elkins in this game, but with the continued fine play of Wheeler, who scored 23 points in this game Cone Y managed to make a good game of it.

Bradley Faircloth dumped in 20 points to aid the local team. With Cone leading with only five minutes remaining Kannapolis hit four straight shots from the floor for a close 77-71 victory.

Players making up the All-Stars team were Bradley Faircloth, Vernon Swafford, Johnny McDonald, Jack Elkins, Bill Patterson, Frank Smith, Al Smith, Charles Hancock, Bill Thornburg, Archie Wheeler, Dick Elkins and Robert Collins.

White Oak Girl Scouts To Have Club Program

White Oak Community Club met last Monday night for a brief business meeting, with Mrs. Otto Burnside presiding.

Next month's meeting will be in the charge of White Oak Girl Scouts, Mrs. Fred Taylor, leader.

All club members are urged to attend this meeting when the program will be by the scout troop sponsored by the organization. Mothers of the scouts are especially invited.

Hostesses for Monday night's meeting were Mrs. John Paschal and Mrs. Ray Tugman.

Others present were Mrs. Burnside, Mrs. Millard Leonard, Mrs. Vance Trolinger, Mrs. Carson Rhew and Miss Mary Louise Wyrick.

Captain Ward Home On 30-Day Furlough

Captain Inez Ward is now spending a 30-day furlough with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Ward, Sr., 1908 N. Elm Street.

Captain Ward, who spent three years in Germany, arrived home February 11. Accompanying her home was First Lieut. Joanne Ellis, who was enroute to Santa Fe, New Mexico. She spent a week with the Ward's.

Captain Ward's next assignment will be in New Mexico.

Square Dance Successful

The square dance last Friday night sponsored by the "Teen Co-ed Club" of Proximity was very successful. Approximately 80 people attended.

Plans are being made to have a square dance once every month.

Music was furnished by members of the club.

Kennel Club To Sponsor Fish-Fry

North Greensboro Kennel Club held its weekly meeting on February 17 at the White Oak Y. New members recognized were Mrs. Daphne Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Caddell and Mrs. Betty Hughes. This brings the total membership to 34. Guests at this meeting were the 14 boy scouts of Scout Troop No. 77 of the Caraway Memorial Methodist Church and their scoutmasters, Sherwood Batchelor and Clarence Whitt. Tentative plans are being made to start a junior obedience class in conjunction with this scout troop.

The club nominated Mrs. J. L. Ritter as historian. W. W. Swink commended the club for its fine show of interest in the obedience training classes. Members taking part in this are Mrs. Bonita Cates, Winfred Cates, J. A. Caddell, Mrs. Jessie Caddell, John W. Holland, Mrs. Betty Hughes, Mrs. Carol Leach, Floyd B. Leach, Mrs. Margarette Merritt, Mrs. Helen Moss. (Continued on Page 4)

Moses H. Cone Memorial Hospital Having Open House

Herman Cone, president of Cone Mills Corporation, president of the Moses H. Cone Memorial Hospital board of trustees and nephew of the late Mrs. Bertha Lindau Cone, will cut the ribbon at the entrance of the new hospital in a simple ceremony this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Announcement of the opening of the $5,000,000 hospital to visitors was made by Dr. Joseph S. Lichty, director.

Among those attending the event will be Lloyd C. Amos, chairman of the Guilford County Board of Commissioners; Mayor Robert H. Frazier and A. O. Smith, president of the North Carolina Hospital Association.

Receiving visitors at open house will be Mrs. Edward Loewenstein, chairman of the hostess committee, and Mrs. Clarence N. Cone, vice chairman.

Inspection Tours
They will conduct inspection tours until 6 o'clock this evening; from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. tomorrow and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Assisting with arrangements will be Mrs. Rachel L. Graves, director of services.

From the entrance lobby, visitors will be taken to the third floor where they will see hospital facilities, including patient rooms, operating rooms, laboratories and supply rooms.

Cone Fabrics
All the material in draperies in patients' rooms is of Cone fabrics. Many of these are designed with pine cone and needle sprays. There are 400 pairs of draperies, including (Continued on Page 4)

Taxes Are No Joke!

That's why you should take seriously the job of preparing your federal income tax return.

(Editor's note: It is important for you to make sure you pay the right tax—neither too much nor too little. This is a serious job, but it helps if we keep our sense of humor. This article, based on material furnished by the American Institute of Accountants, the national professional society of certified public accountants, is designed to help you with your tax return.)

Don't tackle your tax return without knowing the basic rules of the game. You could find it expensive. If you short-change yourself, you cannot rely on the government to find your mistakes and refund your money. Remember, you don't need to pay more than your legal minimum. Do any of the following situations apply to you?

1. Saving by Supporting Relatives

John Sour's wife's aunt moved in with them last May, to help take care of their new baby (she said.) John thinks she was looking for a free rent. She has some $500 coming in every year from insurance. He can prove it costs him $1,000 extra to support her. Can he take her as a dependent on his tax return?

The aunt is not closely enough related to John to qualify on his individual return, but if she is Mrs. Sour's aunt by blood, rather than marriage, she can be listed on a joint return, provided: (1) John furnishes more than half her support, (2) her own income is less than $600, (3) she has not filed a joint return with her husband, (4) she is a U. S. citizen or a resident of the U. S., Canada or Mexico.

The Rule: Check your exemptions carefully—each saves you the tax on $600 of your income.

2. Your Tax Form Counts

Harold Gargle's mind goes blank whenever he has to fill out a form. Should Harold save himself a lot of anguish on his taxes, and merely fill out the simplified form 1040A?

Not if an hour's mental struggle can save him the equivalent of a couple of days' pay. The trick is to use both forms. On the long form 1040 he itemizes all his deductions, and he can claim the full total. But on either the simplified form 1040A, or the short form 1040, there is no itemizing. Harold gets, instead, the standard deduction of 10 per cent of his adjusted gross income. By trying both the short and long forms, Harold will find out which one saves him money.

The Rule: Try your tax on the long form as well as the simplified or short form, to see which gives you the larger deduction.

3. Medical Expenses May Be a Balm

Bill Short's wife had her appendix out last fall, but he hasn't paid the bill yet. Can he list this bill among the medical expenses that he plans to deduct on his 1952 return?

No. Bill's deduction is that part of the family's total medical expenses paid during the tax year, which exceeds 5% of his adjusted gross income. If he or his wife had reached 65 before the end of the year the 5% subtraction rule would apply only to medical expenses for dependents other than his wife. In any case there is an over-all ceiling, as explained in the tax instruction.

The Rule: If you had higher-than-average medical expenses last year, go over them carefully. They may reduce your tax.

4. Good Records Are A Good Idea

Henry Slick plans to take a lot of deductions this year—$200 for gifts to charities, $150 for medicines, and several hundred more for state gasoline taxes, sale taxes, union dues and tools he has to buy in his job as a machinist. Henry doesn't believe in keeping records, and throws away his receipts and cancelled checks. He goes on the theory that "the sky's the limit" when it comes to claiming deductions and doesn't bother himself about proof. Is he safe in assuming the government will take his word because he looks honest?

Henry's honest face will get him nowhere. Unless he keeps written records, such as receipts or cancelled checks, his claims to deductions are likely to be disallowed. In the case of a fraudulent return he could be subjected to severe penalties, as well.

The Rule: Have records to support your return. If you are unsure about some tax question, get advice from a qualified person.

5. No Place Like Home

Herbert Wise sold his home at a loss—because a repair bill for his storm-wrecked garage and porch had taken all his ready cash, and he felt he couldn't pay his property taxes and keep up his mortgage payments. On his tax return, he plans to deduct (1) the loss on the sale, (2) the repair bill, (3) 1952 property taxes and (4) the mortgage interest he has paid. Is Herbert headed for Leav-

Cone Mills Club Has Valentine Party

Cone Mills Club held a Valentine Party last Friday, February 13, at the club. A large crowd was on hand to witness an old-fashioned melodrama, "He Ain't Done Right by Nell." The play was presented in cooperation with Samuel French and directed by Moir Ayers.

Cast of characters included Jean Blake as Nell Perkins, just an old fashioned heroine; Edith Slate as Granny Perkins, who carried a secret for years; Jean Faye Wyrick as Laura Wilkins, a typical old maid; Ruth Hornaday as Vera Carleton, from the city; Ogburn Blake as Burkett Carleton, her father who owns the old mill; Richard Sullivan as Hilton Hays, a wolf in sheep's clothing; Fred Ziprik as Jack Logan, our manly hero.

Door prizes of Cone Corduroy and Cone Towels were won by Louise Tucker, Theodore Long, Carolyn Smith, Carol Craven, Evelyn Wall and Louise Ward.

Refreshments were served with a Valentine background and setting. Moir Ayers was general program chairman and Lillian Ward in charge of refreshments.

Mr. Johnson Honored On 43rd Birthday

Shelly C. Johnson, 1324 21st Street was honored on his 43rd birthday by his wife.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lineberry, Jr. and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Milas and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kreig and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Harper and family, Mr. and Mrs. Mart Gregory, Mrs. Annie Lineberry and Mrs. Pearl Johnson. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wolfe.

Pythians of Cone Lodge To Celebrate Founding

Herman Cone, president of Cone Mills Corporation, will be guest speaker tomorrow night at the dinner meeting of Cone Lodge Knights of Pythias, 158 commemorating the 89th anniversary of the founding of the Pythian Order. More than 250 members and guests are expected to attend the event at 7 o'clock in White Oak YMCA. The dinner is being held in honor of all members of the Cone family, many of whom are members of the local lodge. Mayor Robert H. Frazier will introduce the speaker, William B. Burke, local lodge member and supreme representative from North Carolina to the Supreme Lodge of Knights of Pythias, will be master of ceremonies.

Invocation will be by Rev. R. Murphy Williams, well-known retired Presbyterian minister who is now chaplain for Greensboro Industries, Inc.

Ray Payne, assisted by V. O. Watson and Woodrow Martin, has completed program plans which will include magic tricks by Melvin T. Oakes, member of the local lodge.

Pythian lodges throughout the country are this week celebrating the founding of the Pythian Order on February 19, 1864.

Out-of-town guests who have been invited are: Dr. C. C. Chamberlain, grand chancellor of North Wilkesboro; Dewey Huggins, superintendent of the Pythian Home at Clayton; Roy Warren, grand vice chancellor, Fayetteville; Lawrence Cooper, deputy supreme chancellor, Clayton; G. Sam Winters, grand inner guard, North Wilkesboro, and P. S. Ford, supreme vice chancellor, Martinsville, Va.

Cone Y Girls Defeat Jefferson Team
In the City Basketball League, Cone Y Girls defeated Jefferson Girls Thursday night, February 12, by a score of 34-26. They are now tied with Sero for first place, and a game between these two teams was played last night.

Winner of last night's game will play Summit Shopping Center for the league championship.

Cone Y Girls also played in the Interstate YMCA Tourney held at Mt. Airy last Friday and Saturday. They defeated Rock Hill, 66-29, in the first game with Watkins scoring 41 points for the local team.

In the semi-finals the Cone Girls lost to Spartanburg 31-21. Hicks was the high scorer with 12 points.

Basketball Games Tomorrow

Saturday morning at 11:30 the Cone Memorial YMCA will be hosts to the Winston-Salem YMCA Mites, Midgets and Junior basketball teams, at the Proximity Y.

No admission is charged to see these games.

Cone Fabrics Facts

CONE deeptone® DENIM

The Great Heavy Duty Fabric

(The following is one of a series of write-ups on Cone fabrics which appears in the brochure recently published by Cone Mills Inc., New York.)

DENIM: A strong, firm twill weave cotton fabric, made with an indigo dyed warp and white or tinted filling. Originally "Serge de Nimes," a town in France.

CONE deeptone® DENIM is unquestionably one of America's most famous fabrics . . . the universal favorite for both work and play.

Here's the story. Up to April 24, 1936, denims were dingy and drab in appearance . . . worn for utility only, never for sports or leisure hours.

Then on that date Cone announced the revolutionary deeptone blue and improved texture that put the overall industry on a better-appearance basis and gradually made dungarees a national clothing habit.

It takes more than 3,800 men and women and over 5,000 looms to meet the tremendous demand for CONE deeptone® DENIM. The "Great Heavy Duty Fabric," as it is called, is in practically every wardrobe and every store in the country. Few fabrics mean so much to so many.

In addition to CONE deeptone® DENIM, Cone Mills produce special western denims, striped denims and the Cone Play Denim which you see in the smartest sportswear everywhere.

A Bitter Pill

A recent statement by Henry Ford II, will probably not receive the attention among textile people which it should.

Mr. Ford's chief interest in the economics of the country is centered around the manufacture of automobiles. Even though the gentleman no doubt has a broad perspective and is sincerely interested in the overall welfare of the nation, we must admit that his perspective is somewhat colored by his own individual experience and interests.

Mr. Ford's advocacy of free worldwide trade, which means the removal of all tariffs and other trade barriers, is no doubt prompted by a conviction that such a development would be of worldwide benefit.

If Mr. Ford's experience and interest were confined to the welfare of textiles, we feel quite sure that his attitude would be somewhat different. The automotive industry, as well as some of the other major industries in this country, have little to fear from foreign competition. In fact, the export business of the American automotive group is enormous and there is a good chance that a program such as Mr. Ford advocates would lead to an increase in exports of automobiles. On the other hand, the automotive group might find that their domestic sales would drop if such a free trade program were instituted, for we feel quite certain there would be fewer automobiles sold to people who now earn their living in textile manufacturing.

With unrestricted importation of textiles to this country, the thousands of people who now earn their living from the manufacture of fabrics would have less purchasing power; in fact, the entire textile industry would suffer drastically.

The textile mills in the United States cannot successfully compete with the major textile producing foreign countries. Our costs are appreciably higher and there is little that can be done about it. We may possess some technical advantage over some of the countries which lead to greater productivity per unit, but these advantages are offset many times by the much cheaper costs in such countries as Japan.

In considering this problem we cannot overlook the fact that a lot of other countries which previously were not in the textile manufacturing business on a substantial scale are now trying to develop their own textile industries. These countries have a greater abundance of labor and have potentialities of becoming extremely low-cost manufacturing nations.

With proper credit and other capital financial arrangements, they can purchase modern equipment which is available for sale to those countries by our own machinery manufacturers as well as machinery manufacturers in other countries such as England, Germany and even Japan.

This matter of free trade sounds good, but if it were to become a reality it would be a bitter pill for thousands of people in the United States who are dependent upon our textile industry for jobs. It is a matter that concerns not alone the stockholders and managers of our textile industries, but also, and to an even greater extent, the thousands who work in the mills.

Joe Gets A Job

By George Peck*

(Reprinted from The Link-Belt News)

Fred C. Crawford, president of Thompson Products, Inc., large employer of labor in the Cleveland, Ohio, area tells the story of an American family which explodes the fallacy of socialist planning. He introduces us to the Hunter family, composed of Joe Hunter, his wife, Mrs. Bargain Hunter; and Grandpa Work-Hard-And-Save Hunter.

This family, along with the Preacher, Labor Leader, Politician and Professor attend a Town Hall Meeting called by Planner, well meaning visionary, who knows nothing from experience about the basic laws of production, distribution and consumption, yet believes he and his bright young men have found the way to usher in a Bright New Future in which no one will work for profit, every man shall have a job and human rights will come before property rights.

Planner tells Joe to start work. Joe asks, "What do you want me to make?" Planner asks Mrs. Bargain Hunter what she would like to buy. She says she wants a coffee-pot. At the end of an hour's hand work, Joe has made a coffee-pot and wants a dollar.

Mrs. Hunter refuses to pay more than 75 cents. Mr. Planner suggests that Joe accept 75 cents for an hour's work. Joe refuses and goes on a sit-down strike because he has been told high wages get business going.

In desperation Planner turns to Grandpa Hunter, suggests he get some of his savings out of the sugar bowl to prime the pump and keep Joe working. He tells Grandpa, "Human rights are involved, they come first and your money is just property rights." Grandpa refuses, blurted out that this money is his life's toil and sacrifice, his food and shelter for old age and no crackpot scheme gets any of it.

Planner loses his temper, accuses the Hunters of being uncooperative, of following human impulses. He states he will decree dictatorial powers, take the money away from Grandpa and make Mrs. Hunter buy the pot at a certain price. Bedlam breaks loose in the Hunter family. They shout: "It's a free country—I'll strike—I refuse to invest—I want bargains."

The Preacher, Professor and Politician then speak up and say: "Wall Street is to blame, free enterprise is a failure, the frontiers are gone. We know what's wrong but the Hunters are too dumb to understand. We'll get the WPA started again and use government deficits to prime the pump; the New Shuffler can handle this."

At this juncture, a quiet self-possessed man rose and said: "I am a Business Man." Mrs. Hunter said, "Let that man talk. He did a swell job on war production."

Business Man says: "It's all quite simple; all my life I have been hiring workers and producing useful things, always customers have demanded bargains, labor has sought top wages, stockholders have wanted dividends. That's right, it's human nature. That's what makes industry progress. But you can't have more unless you produce more."

"When America was free we learned the precious secret of the Production of Wealth. It only works in a free country. Twenty years ago theorists and bureaucrats, who never produce anything, took over and have almost wrecked us."

He turns to Planner and asks him to call off his rules, regulations and edicts. He turns to Grandpa and promises him a fair chance to make profits on his investments. The old gentleman gladly turns over his money and the Business Man says he will buy new machinery with which Joe can turn his man hours into more coffee-pots per hour.

Production engineers bring in metal, conveyors, a motor, over the protest of the Labor Leader, who denounces machines. In an hour, Joe makes two coffee-pots. Mrs. Hunter buys one for herself and one for her neighbor, Mrs. Kelly, and pays $1.50. The Business Man gives Joe $1.10 (a raise of 10 cents); gives Grandpa a dime dividend, puts aside 30 cents for himself, reserves and materials; and states that 50 cents of New Wealth has been born.

He turns to the Preacher, Professor and Politician and says: "That is the way New Wealth is produced, the way we can save this country from crack-pot social and economic schemes. The Hunter family look at each other and then at the Business Man and say in unison: 'We did this ourselves.'"

The Business Man says he is glad they now realize the Planner is a useless bureaucrat. "You Hunters are the government, why don't you fire him?"

To Grandpa's question as to what part he plays in the picture, the Business Man replies: "I send out and get Mother's orders, get Grandpa to invest his hard-earned savings in the factory and then put Joe to work. I don't pay the wages, I simply collect from the consumer, pass some of it on to Grandpa in dividends, some to Joe in wages, pay for the material, pay myself a salary and set the balance aside for taxes, future needs and expansion. You pay me for my work. I just work for the Hunter family."

Pythian Echoes

by R. Cole Lee

Pythians Clarence Cone, "Cone Mills vice president, and D. O. Tice, manager of Belk's, have been honorably selected to head the current Red Cross Drive in their particular branch of business. Congratulations follow!

The Pythian Highway Courtesy Campaign will be launched February 18 with a series of meetings scattered across the United States and Canada and with the greatest radio, television, newspaper and magazine publicity in the history of the order. Participants will be governors and United States Senators who are Pythians, among whom will be U. S. Senator Herbert H. Lehman, Congressman Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., Supreme Chancellor Shelton M. Roper of Lincoln will be the principal figure throughout the campaign.

After many years of active membership in the Pythian Order, Governor James F. Byrnes was presented with a life membership during the Grand Lodge Convention held in Anderson, S. C.

Carson Ritter and Howard Stanley were given the second rank work last Monday. Both candidates appeared as fresh afterwards as they were at the beginning, so we shall look forward with pleasure of seeing them take their final degree next Monday.

Everyone appreciates appreciation. We are willing to toil, work, labor and struggle, if, in the end, we can be sure of the fact that our sacrifices are recognized and appreciated. To feel grateful, to be grateful, is a duty; to be ungrateful is a sin which shows to others and reveals to oneself his absence of one of the chief requisites of manhood. faults one may have; indeed, it is a cloud without the silver lining. Gratitude is the rarest flower that grows in the garden of virtue, therefore, for our own sake of others let us start cultivating. Most recently there fell into my hands a letter which to me reveals the true make-up of the sender. I quote: "Dear Members of Cone Pythian Lodge No. 158: I deeply appreciate the lovely letter you sent me in memory of my father. Since you have so many worthy projects and do so much for others, I would like to send this little gift in loving memory of my father to add to your Orphanage Fund or use in any way you wish. When you have your next paper drive, won't you please have someone to stop by my home and pick up the paper in my garage? Thank you again for your loving thoughts of my father. Sincerely yours, Virginia Fields."

For this most excellent letter I wish to voice the appreciation of the entire lodge. I makes us feel good to know that some little act, some little word means so much to others.

The next D.O.K.K. ceremonial will be held in Lenoir March 28 while the next monthly meeting of the Order will be held at Winston-Salem on March 3.

Thoughts On The Business Of Life

We cannot define God or any of the real values of life. What is the vague thing called forth that is worth living and dying for. Beauty, truth, friendships, love, creation—these are the great values of life. We can't prove them, or explain them, yet they are the most stable things in our lives.—Dr. Jesse Herman Holmes

There ought to be a system of manners in every nation which a well-formed mind would be disposed to relish. To make us love our country, our country ought to be lovely.—Burke

Our business in life is not to get ahead of others, but to get ahead of ourselves—to break our own records, to outstrip our yesterday by our today, to do our work with more force than ever before.—Stewart B. Johnson

Research teaches a man to admit he is wrong and to be proud of the fact that he does so, rather than try with all his energy to defend an unsound plan because he is afraid that admission of error is a confession of weakness when rather it is a sign of strength.—Prof. H. E. Stocher

Today a reader, tomorrow a leader.—W. Fusselman
Every man has some peculiar train of thought which he falls back upon when he is alone. This, to a great degree, moulds the man.—Dugald Stewart

It is indeed a desirable thing to be well descended, but the glory belongs to our ancestors.—Plutarch

It is not the variegated colors, the cheerful sounds, and the warm breezes which enliven us so much in Spring; it is the quiet prophetic spirit of endless hope, a presentiment of many happy days, the anticipation of higher everlasting blossoms and fruits and the secret sympathy with the world that is developing itself.—Martin Opitz

A state, in which the citizens are compelled or actuated by means of a dictator to obey even the best laws, might be a tranquil, peaceable, prosperous state; but it would always seem to me a multitude of well-cared-for slaves, rather than a nation of free and independent men with no restraint save such as was required to prevent any infringement on right.—Wilhelm von Humboldt

Almighty God, we make our earnest prayer that Thou wilt keep the United States in Thy holy protection.
—George Washington

THESE ARE indeed days which test the courage of our leaders. Long may we remember the calm, steadfast courage which enabled Washington—a comparatively untrained militia officer—to carry on the American Revolution, against experienced generals with veteran troops.

In observing Washington's birthday on February 22 we should realize that his courage was above mere physical bravery, although he proved his fearlessness during Braddock's battle with the French and Indians, and again when he rode his horse between the volleying British and American lines at Princeton.

But it was spiritual courage that sustained him during the long series of defeats that marked the progress of the war. Spiritual courage fortified him during that long winter at Valley Forge.

May those we have chosen to lead in these equally perilous times possess, through their prayers and ours to the Source of all good and strength, the qualities that sustained the Father of Our Country.

Play-off Games Will Begin Next Week In Basketball League

Monday night will mark the end of the Cone Memorial YMCA Church Basketball League with play-offs being played next week between the first half winner, Eller Memorial Baptist and the second half winner.

Last Monday night, Proximity Methodist edged past Buffalo Presbyterian 38-37. Jack Elkins led the winning team with 17 points. Frank Smith led Buffalo with 13.

In the second game Eller Memorial Baptist defeated Revolution Baptist 60-47. Patterson led Eller Memorial with 15 points and T. Seawell and "Snook" Swafford had 14 points each. Phillips was high man for Revolution with 17.

Second half standing in the Church League are:

Economist Cites Religion's Role, In Industry

"Religion is functioning effectively in helping to bring about the operation of modern business in the capitalist system in such a way as to elevate the common man to a higher plane of dignity and worth," declared Dr. Albert Keister of the Department of Economics at Woman's College, in participating in the Inter-Faith Forum on "Religion in Higher Education," this week at the college.

"Modern business is taking increasingly the attitude that the managers of business are not barons of industry, but are rather trustees of the interests of investors, workers, consumers and the public," he said.

Increased production of synthetics will become more and more important to the industry in 1953, but chances are that use of wool, like cotton, also will increase in the next ten years, according to the magazine. Fabrics made entirely from wool still have their own distinctive properties; with an increasing population and greater consumer markets there will be increasing needs for more woolen and worsted fabrics. Synthetics blended with wool may satisfy some of these needs, but there is plenty of room in the field for all-wool fabrics, blended fabrics and all-synthetic ones, the magazine says.

High expenditures also were made last year by the textile industry for textile machinery, auxiliary equipment and supplies, which totaled more than in any year in history except 1951. Textile World's index of dollar volume of these mill purchases for '52 was 428 (1929=100), down five points from '51. On the basis of sales forecasts, the index for '53 will be a record-breaking 436.

Mill productivity, population and the use of synthetics all are increasing at a rate of two per cent a year, and productivity could be increased far more with added research, according to the magazine.

In ten years it is expected that fiber consumption will rise from less than seven billion pounds to eight billion; synthetics will account for about 40 per cent (3,200 million pounds) of that, and the U. S. market potential will increase with a population rise of

TAXES ARE NO JOKE!

Herbert's freedom is not in jeopardy, but he'd better lay some of the house money aside for the tax collector. The deduction for loss on the sale of the home will be disallowed, with consequent additional tax and interest. His deductions for property taxes and interest on mortgage are O.K. So is the repair bill if it is a fair measure of the storm loss and the storm loss was not covered by insurance. Note that the repair bill is deductible as a casualty loss, not as repairs. Selling your home presents a tax problem. You cannot deduct a loss—and you may have to pay tax on a profit. You do not have to pay a tax on the profit if you buy another home which costs as much as you received for the first one; you must do this, however, within one year before or after the sale of the first.

The Rule: Do not neglect deductions that result from your owning your own home. They can help reduce your tax.

6. Inflation and the Extra Dollar
Willis Watt, who works as a company electrician, has felt the pressure of inflation and is making money on the side repairing radio and TV sets. He does the work in a back room of his house. Last year he made $500 from the sideline. Willis thinks that, since this is less than $600, it is tax-free and he doesn't have to report it on his return. Is he right?

He is mistaken. It is only when total income is less than $600 that it is tax-free. If the total income is $600 or more a return must be filed and all income must be included.

Since Willis is his own employer to the extent of his sideline business, he can deduct business expense related to his sideline business. For instance, he could deduct a proportionate part of the cost of maintaining his home, since he uses one room for sideline business. If, instead of working at home for himself, Willis was required to work at home under the terms of his employment with his full-time employer, he would also be entitled to deduct the related home expenses provided there was no reimbursement by the employer.

The Rule: Income from "outside" work must be included in your return. But remembering that business expenses may be deductible.

A Quick Check-List

Here is a check-list of dates and information about filing.

1. File early—before the March 16th deadline. Avoid the last-minute mistakes that can lead to overpaying your tax. The government doesn't want that any more than you do.
2. If any member of your family has taxes withheld, even on an income of less than $600, he should file a return. That is the only way to get a refund of the tax withheld from pay.
3. If a Declaration of Estimated Income for 1953 is due from you, file it when you file your 1952 return. You have to file a declaration if:
  - Your total income will be more than $4500 plus $600 for each of your exemptions, or—
  - You have income of over $100 from any source other than wages from which your

BOWLING TIPS

LEE JOUGLARD SAYS:

1. Use proper equipment. Ball that fits your hand, shoes comfortable to your feet.
2. Relax, be natural in your approach.
3. Get the ball out over the foul line.
4. Follow through with every ball.
5. Concentrate, keep your mind on the game.
6. Temperament plays an important part; keep your wits about you.
7. Join Payroll Savings in your plant and save U. S. Defense Bonds! With such security, you can really enjoy bowling!
